

New Africa: where young people would love to stay and work?

One of the solutions to the large movement of young people away from Africa into Europe is to create a better place for young Africans in Africa that provides them what they seek for in Europe. Give them basic welfare and basic health care. Give them human rights!

If there is a country in Africa,

- where people have access to basic welfare and basic health care.
- where young people could find work to do
- where there is no police brutality
- where there is rule of law
- where there is constant power supply
- where children rights is protected
- where women right is protected
- where all children are allowed to attend school
- where people get free clean water to drink
- where human right is respected
- where there is gender equality

Many of those who risk their lives to reach Europe would have made this new country their destination.

Is it possible for AU and EU to realise a new country inside the continent of Africa that offers what Europe offers to her citizens and migrants?

Creating a new state inside the continent of Africa where those amenities that African youth seek in Europe are readily available would make them stay in Africa. Forcing them to stay would not stop them permanently.

Photo: © Belga

Delta of river Niger, devastated by multinational oil companies.

A New Africa, Is it Possible?

$50 billion dollars is being stolen away from Africa yearly. This news is all over there on internet. Africa is not a poor continent!

Europe owes Africa just a single thing. „Working with Africa to create a new state inside the continent of Africa where basic welfare and basic health care are both possible!“

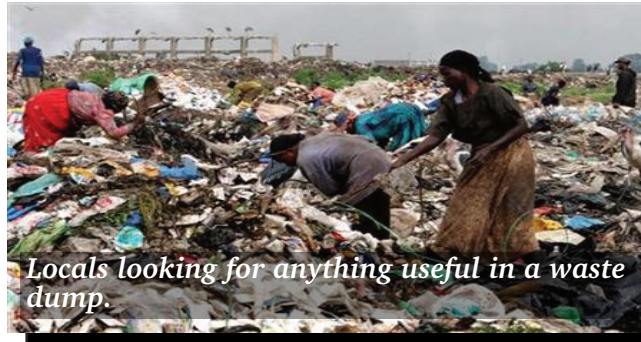

Making a scape goat out of migration is not a solution, creating a better Africa for Africans to live is a solution!

Who is fighting for the right of poor Africans? Definitely not those that deny the poor people basic welfare and basic health care. Surely, not those that import weapons to Africa and not those that send weapons to Africa to kill Africans and also not those that are killing the African economy.

The condition in which Africa finds itself today is a result of colonisation. Who are we going to blame tomorrow for the lives of young people dying daily trying to reach Europe today?

Africa is witnessing modern day slave trade and many are pretending as if no crime is being committed. This is nothing but crime against humanity. To deny people of basic welfare and basic health care when politicians are stealing large sums of money away from Africa on a daily basis. This is crime against humanity! Young people die on a daily basis, this is a crime against humanity. It could be prevented.

Reports show that many young women and men would remain in Africa if there is a country in Africa that offers what the young people seek to enjoy in Europe (Basic welfare and basic health care). A lot of young people would not see any reason to seek to enter Europe through dangerous ways if they have better life in Africa.

Locals looking for anything useful in a waste dump.

Photo: © REUTERS/Thomas Mukoya

Why have African countries failed to provide basic welfare and basic health care for their citizens? Why have they refused to provide employment opportunities for young people? Does it mean they have no idea how to do it or they just are not willing to do it?

Even some African leaders who are operating those failed states do not allow their children to live in those failed states in Africa. Their children are enjoying better lives in Europe and in America.

Why do African leaders go to seek for medical treatment overseas? Why don't they provide good health services in Africa?

Europe can not shield itself away from Africa's problems. It is evidence now that the crisis in Africa is spilling across the mediterranean sea into Europe. As long as there is not a single state in Africa where African people could go to seek for protection against persecution and seek for better life, Europe can not close its door against African seeking for protection.

The best Europe could do is to work with Africa and create a better state in Africa as an example of a functioning democracy. Africa does not need a new refugees dumping center but a functioning state that will offer basic welfare and basic health care to African people. A functioning state that would show African leaders that peace is possible in any country. A functioning state that would serve as a good example to African leaders that rule of law is possible. A functioning state that would serve as an example of functioning democracy. Then, the young African will have a place to call their better home.

A new Africa where we will never flee again!!!

Participants at a Cagintua conference